

CONTENTS

May 2012 >> Issue 1

48

FEATURES

54 >> Let There Be Light

A defunct church becomes a stained-glass studio.

58 >> Sonic 'Cuse

Noise or music? Its underground fans say both.

62 >> Udder Artisans

What it takes to bring local cheeses from farm to market.

66 >> "Funny Woman Walks into a Bar...."

Syracuse's female comedians play to a tough crowd.

70 >> Should I Stay or Should I Go

Haters are gonna hate. But living and working here has its perks.

ON THE COVER

38

54

66

DEPARTMENTS

36 Deposits

>> Kicked into High Gear

Web-based funds give Syracuse bands a chance to make it big.

38 Up Close

>> Picture Imperfect

A budding fashion photographer aims for NYC out of necessity.

41 Homefront

>> Little Big House

La Casita Cultural Center provides a local hub for Latinos.

>> Arts in Your Backyard

A Near Westside community arts center puts down roots for change.

44 Wanderlust

>> Eau de Interstate

A winery in a most unlikely place offers a unique experience.

>> Book it to Buffalo

A trip-worthy lineup makes the Town Ballroom the place to be.

48 The Current

>> Phantom Menaces

Hangin' with Those Ghostfckers: a photo essay.

CONTENTS

May 2012 >> Issue 1

08 Editor's Note
10 Contributors
11 Web Exclusives

ABOVE THE FOLD

14 Exposed

» Rebel with a Cause

Brendan Rose talks public art, architecture, and his plans for what's next.

» The World's Answering Machine

A Liverpool native turns voicemails into melodies on his Tumblr blog.

» Candle Power

Some college students drink during break. Others produce original theater.

20 Spot On

» Protecting the Past

The Syracuse Landmark Preservation Board keeps an eye on the city's history.

» Finding My Native Drum

At Wacheva Cultural Center, our staff writer reconnects with her heritage through dance.

24 Engage

» Artful Eats

How one meal serves as an arts incubator.

» Spoken in Syracuse

A novice poet takes the stage at Underground Poetry Spot's open mic night.

29 Indulge

» Get Roasted

At Kind Coffee Company, it's all about the beans.

» Belly Up

Late nights just got one more dining option.

31 Subset

» Wild Things

Watch SUNY-ESF students get downright primitive.

33 Reviews

A book, a CD, and an oldie worth a second glance.

80

BELOW THE FOLD

77 » Spreading the Love

The graffiti artist behind the LOVE ME tags (sort of) explains his street-art meme.

78 » Calendar

UnFold's Must List.

80 » ROC City Jazz

A hip CNY festival rivals that of New Orleans. (Hint: it's not in Syracuse.)

14

24

29

77